

PARADE OF 3,800 RED CROSS WOMEN A BEAUTIFUL SPECTACLE

LONG LINE OF WHITE UNIFORMED WAR WORKERS IN PROCESSION THROUGH STREETS PRETTIEST SIGHT IN CITY'S HISTORY, MANY DECLARE

Members of County Chapters and Auxiliaries Parade, With Many Floats.

Most of Them From City

Entire County Represented but Connellsville Furnishes Majority of the Procession Members; Official Estimate Puts the Number at 3,800.

Connellsville history has not recorded an event like that which was witnessed this morning in the streets of the city when 3,800 women, bearing aloft the banner of the greatest humanitarian organization in the world—the American Red Cross—marched in the most magnificent, the most beautiful procession it has born. A lot of the people of the city and thousands of visitors to view, feeling like it was seen during the war when the patriotic fervor of the people was at its height. Nothing comparing with it marked the years before the conflict. This is the consensus of opinion as gathered from remarks heard along the line of march from Gibson avenue to the Davidson road on the South Side.

The official estimate of the number of the parade was 3,800. The parade marched at 10:15 o'clock. It was a full half hour in passing the corner of Gibson avenue into Pittsburg street and during a part of this time the marchers were going on the line to keep pace with the horseback riders in the lead.

Principally the procession was made up of Connellsville women, with a few children carrying out in perfect manner their part in the elaborate program. All counted there were close to 2,500 representatives of the Connellsville branch, not including some of the outlying auxiliaries. Some parts of the county, "kitty" were counted upon for their support to the movement. They responded but on the whole the showing was far in excess of what no leaders had hoped for, but though they had worked to bring it off a successful issue, and all out of proportion to what many of the people had anticipated. The women marched 10 abreast, led by their captains and lieutenants.

Dunbar, Vanderbilt and Perry township were well represented. Dressed in the regulation Red Cross uniform and each carrying a Red Cross flag, over the left shoulder, the marchers made a most beautiful and inspiring procession. Adding to the charm of the whole were the most elaborate floats that have been improvised by any occasion of this nature. In this parade officials of the Red Cross, county and local and others.

Three very elaborate floats were provided by Miss Katherine Frisbee. One was a truck fashioned as a huge basket covered with white and lavender excelsior, a new decorative material, carrying officials of the Red Cross and bearing on it the letters "C. D." (county directors). Another, also carrying officials, was most beautifully decorated with the same material in purple, with the top and parts of the body and wheels trimmed in lavender and the whole set off with white festooning. A third car, in which rode Miss Frisbee and the speaker of the day, J. R. Wood, an overseas man, was draped in pure white, with large red crosses embellishing it. The large truck came from Scottsdale. The one car was loaned by Mrs. W. A. Furlong, and the other was Miss Frisbee's own.

Other floats in the parade were that bearing the Red Cross mother—impersonated by Mrs. J. J. Dougherty and two nurses, Miss Isabel Bigam and Miss Anna Margaret Kramer. The congregation of St. Rita's church also had a beautiful float, as did the Daughters of the American Revolution, with a dozen young people aboard in the costume of the revolutionary period and presenting a most attractive sight.

As the women filed by the reviewing stand on the Carnegie library grounds all saluted Miss Clara Barton, the original head of the Red Cross movement in America, impersonated by Miss Kathryn Campbell and Henry Durant, founder of the organization, represented by Frank Sweeney. On the stand with them was Miss Irene Holland, an overseas nurse.

Leading the procession rode Mrs. Charles Davidson and Mrs. Harry Dull, marshals, followed by Mrs. J. Kirk Renner and Miss Mary A. McKinstry, as Red Cross girls, and then girls representing the Allied nations and various branches of the United States service, all on horseback. Miss Gladys Humbert impersonated France; Miss Marian Davidson, Belgium; Miss Grace Adams, Great Britain; Miss Ruby Dull, Italy; Miss Ethel Cope of Perryopolis, Serbia; Miss Frances Sisley of Perryopolis, France; Miss Gertrude Reid, U. S. Marines; Miss Gertrude Reid, U. S. Marines.

THOUSANDS FROM EVERY SECTION OF COUNTY TO PARADE ON MILITARY DAY

DON'T APPLAUDE TILL PAGEANT ENDS, PLEADS MEMBERS OF COMMITTEE

Applause during the progress of the pageant at Davidson Grove tonight will confuse rather than encourage the performers, members of the committee said today. So The Courier was asked to request those who attend to save their hand-clapping and other evidences of approval until the spectacle has been concluded. Owing to lack of parking space, automobile owners are asked to leave their cars at home, except when carrying old people or invalids.

PAGEANT WILL BE A BEAUTIFUL SPECTACLE, REHEARSAL INDICATES

Special Request Issued That Lodge Members Appear for Soldier Parts Tonight.

The final rehearsal for the pageant, "The Historical Progress of Fayette County," was held at Davidson Grove last night and despite the fact that it was the first time the thousands of players had gone through the entire performance together, it was evident that it will be a beautiful spectacle. Almost all were in full costume. Those who have not as yet received their costumes, however, may receive them upon application to the Red Cross rooms in the old high school building up to 6 o'clock tonight.

Members of the Knights of Columbus, Knights of Pythias, Odd Fellows, Junior Order of American Mechanics, Maccabees and Elks, who are to be French and English soldiers, are urged by the committee to be on hand early tonight and to secure their costumes at the Red Cross rooms. The success of the pageant depends much upon the appearance of these men, Mrs. J. F. Kerr, head of the pageant committee, stated today.

The committee requested The Courier to ask those who attend the pageant to refrain from applauding until the close of the spectacle. Last night confusion was caused by unnecessary noise, especially that caused by automobiles.

The pageant will begin promptly at 8 o'clock, following the concert by the united bands at the grove.

BADGE CONTROVERSY

Committee Claims Soldier Badge Sellers Should Be Barred.

One of the men in uniform peddling badges for their own benefit insulted a city girl who was selling the official home-coming souvenir badge last night, according to a member of the committee, and as a result difficulty is being encountered getting young women to sell them.

Members of the souvenir committee were indignant that permission was given these other vendors to ply their trade in cheap buttons and complaint was made to the central committee, but the latter were still on the job this morning.

SERVICE MEN'S DINNER

Eleven Churches Will Serve War Heroes from 11 to 1 Wednesday.

A free dinner for the soldiers, sailors and marines will be served on Wednesday, military day, in 11 churches of the city by women from all the churches. The hours are from 11 to 1 o'clock. Tickets will be issued to all men who were in the service at the registration booth on the corner of Pittsburg street and Crawford avenue and they are requested to call for them as early in the morning as possible.

All service men are urged to register at the booth when they arrive in the city.

New Air Record. WASHINGTON, July 8.—A new non-stop sea record was established yesterday between San Francisco and San Diego, the army air service announced today, when Captain Lowell H. Smith flew 610 miles at the rate of 148.4 miles per hour. Captain Smith was alone in a DeHavilland "bluebird."

Court House to Close. The court house at Uniontown will be closed all day tomorrow so that officials and employees may participate in the Military Day festivities here.

Feature of Tomorrow's Program to Eclipse Anything Ever Held Here.

Incomplete reports received by Chief Marshal J. L. Evans as to the probable lineup for the military day parade tomorrow point to it eclipsing anything since the centennial in 1906, if not exceeding that event, which stands out as the most elaborate in the history of the city. Some organizations which are expected to be on parade have not been heard from. Enough have reported, however, to indicate that it will be worth coming many miles to witness.

The plans for the parade remain unchanged. The procession will form on the West Side in time to march at 2 o'clock. The order of formation has not yet been made public and may not be finally decided before tomorrow.

From the various streets the big procession will march into Crawford avenue, thence to Prospect street to Fairview avenue, to Pittsburg street, to Lincoln avenue, to Race street, to Davidson avenue, to Pittsburg street, to Fayette field where it will disband. Residents of the outlying sections will therefore be given opportunity to witness the parade in their respective districts without adding to the congestion of visitors in the downtown section. It is urged upon visitors that they, too, make their way to the outer districts where they will be better able to view the pageant.

The duty of the service men, now that Connellsville and the county are endeavoring to do honor to them in the Fayette county home-coming celebration, is to add as many prejudices they may have to parading and appear in review in the military procession here tomorrow. Rev. A. E. Glenon of Dawson, one of their number, told a delegation representing several divisions of the Army and some naval men last evening at the armory.

Strangers have seen them parade. Father Glenon pointed out. The folks at home, the ones most interested, have not. This is not as it should be, he said.

"There are others to be considered besides ourselves," Father Glenon said. "We must think of our relatives and friends, especially our relatives. We must take into consideration that while we have been in the service they have been here at home working and worrying and caring for us. We must take into consideration that our friends and relatives are entitled to this consideration."

The service men and women will have the place of honor. How many there will be is uncertain yet, but the belief is they will respond to the appeal.

COMPANY G MEETS FRIDAY MORNING TO LEAVE FOR CAMP

Latest Order of Captain A. R. Skowp. Summons Men to Armory at 9 in the Morning.

All previous orders to members of Company G, Third Regiment, Pennsylvania Reserve Militia, relative to assembling for movement to camp at Mount Gretna Friday, are revoked by an order issued last evening by Captain A. R. Skowp, which reads as follows:

"Countermarching all former orders issued, members of Company G are requested to appear at the state armory at 9 A. M. Friday in uniform and not before."

The militiamen will spend the day in preparation for starting for camp on the 5:35 train Friday evening. There will be three officers and 60 enlisted men to go.

LIFT FOR SERVICE MEN

Autoists Exhibit Cards Offering Them Free Transportation.

"Soldiers, sailors and marines going my way welcome to ride," read cards that appeared yesterday on more than 150 automobiles in the city. By this means many of the service men were transported to Davidson's grove.

The invitation, however, is to ride anywhere, provided the service man is going the way the car is headed. The idea is that of the central committee.

Three Trespassers Held. C. Henderson, D. A. Adams and A. J. Huey, charged with trespassing, are being held at the city lockup for the Baltimore & Ohio police.

H. C. FRICK, UNABLE TO COME FOR CELEBRATION, THANKS MEN FOR PERSONAL INVITATION

Among the persons of note who were officially invited to be present during the exercises of the Home-coming Celebration was Henry C. Frick, founder of the great coke company which bears his name. The invitation to him was of so novel and striking character that the receipt of it touched his heart as few similar incidents in his life have done.

A special form of invitation was prepared and it was circulated among the employees of the company at the different works located in Fayette county. The men who had been in the service attached their signatures, and it was returned to J. E. Angie, chairman, and H. B. Brown, Jr., secretary of the central committee. A letter of invitation on part of the committee was attached and the whole forwarded to Mr. Frick under date of July 3. Just this morning was a letter received from Mr. Frick which expressed in a most cordial and sincere manner the regret he has in not being able to be present. The letter follows:

With all good wishes and sympathetic greetings, I am, Yours sincerely, HENRY C. FRICK.

KAISER NOT WORRIED LIBERTY LOAN WORKERS

Figures He is Safe in Holland for a Long Time. By Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, July 8.—Former Emperor William and his wife are apparently unperturbed by the possibility that proceedings will be brought by the Entente for the extradition of the former monarch's suite had indicated in conversation with the correspondent that it was their opinion any proceedings from Allied quarters would be protracted for many months without any certainty that the Netherlands government would consent to hand the former Kaiser over for trial. They are almost unanimously convinced that they are here for a long sojourn and are making preparations accordingly.

Wife Brings Charges. E. J. Hall of Meadow Lane is being held at the city hall pending a hearing before a local alderman on a charge of being drunk and disorderly and beating his wife. The information will be made today. Mrs. Hall told the police.

R-34 to Start Tomorrow. MINNEOLA, N. Y., July 8.—Major G. E. M. Pritchard, executive officer of the R-34, after inspecting the dirigible's engines at 9 o'clock today, said all repairs would be completed by 9 o'clock tonight and that fuel, water and other supplies would be taken aboard before midnight. With favorable weather, he said, the R-34 will be ready to start at daylight tomorrow.

At the picnic about $140 was realized from the sale of refreshments by the picnic organization, headed by Mrs. Austin Rhodes. According to estimates secured the memorial will cost about $500. How the remainder will be raised has not been determined.

The fountain and watering trough will probably be of concrete, the table of bronze. The list of dead is not complete. There are a number in the immediate vicinity of Wooddale.

The idea is the most practical that has been proposed for a memorial. Upwards of 2,000 people attended the picnic. Speakers of the day were Prof. A. A. Doreland of State College, Attorneys A. E. Jones and L. G. Chorpianing of Uniontown, and James G. Robinson of Franklin township, assistant county superintendent of schools.

An interesting feature of the occasion was an old-time spelling contest in which a prize of $5 was won by Riley Nedrow of Pittsburg, formerly a Rayette county teacher, with Attorney Chorpianing, also once a teacher, taking the second prize, a fountain pen.

PLAN TO PLACE HONOR ROLL AT PUBLIC DRINKING FOUNT ALONG MT. PLEASANT ROAD

A public drinking fountain erected over an artesian well 300 feet deep along the Connellsville-Mount Pleasant road (via Detweiler's Mill) near Ore Mines, with the overflow supplying a watering trough and the whole embellished with a slab bearing the names of the dead in the world war in Bullskin township is the form of memorial proposed to be erected through a fund started at the annual Ore Mines picnic held Saturday.

The well is located just off the road on the property of Austin Rhodes between Wooddale and Ore Mines test house. It was drilled in a test for determining the minerals underlying. The water is of fine quality and cold.

FOUR-CORNERED FIGHT IS ON FOR PRESIDENCY OF FIREMEN; NEXT MEETING PLACE IN DOUBT

FIREMEN WILL HONOR "SPORT" McALLISTER, WOUNDED IN FRANCE

Veteran of World War, Now in Carlisle Hospital, to Be Elected a Vice President.

Perhaps the man most missed by the firemen this year is James McAllister, of the Swissvale department, better known to the members of the firemen's association as "Sport" McAllister, who has always been the "push and go" of every convention. This year "Sport" is not with the boys, although they are eagerly awaiting word that he may by some chance be able to get here for the closing days of the convention.

When the war broke out McAllister enlisted and went overseas. He was severely wounded and was returned to this country as a casual. At present he is still in the Carlisle hospital. He can only get about by the use of a cane, a relic which he made for himself in France. An endeavor has been made to secure a furlough for him as the boys are eager to see his face once more. Those who have visited the wounded soldier say he is not quite the same chap, but that his heart is still with the association.

The one ambition of McAllister has been to become an officer of the association. This year the firemen are going to elect him one of the vice-presidents. Everyone of them is a friend of McAllister's and they are especially glad to elect him in Connellsville, as it was here four years ago that he "put the pep" into the convention.

Another late arrival is C. Fred Hyle of Evans City, president of the convention in 1902.

Another familiar face is that of Treasurer James H. Steel of Wilkensburg. He was made treasurer at the organization of the association in Pittsburg in 1904, and has held the office ever since.

DELEGATES GET TO WORK

Memorial Exercises in Soisson Theatre at 2 O'clock This Afternoon Followed by Business Session; Water Battle on Johnston Avenue.

Firemen yesterday began to arrive in the city by the hundreds and others are coming on all trains to attend the annual convention of the Western Pennsylvania Firemen's association here this week. What fire companies are not attending the gathering with full membership are sending delegates.

Today saw the official opening of the convention at the Soisson theatre at 2 o'clock. The initial program included the memorial services, followed by a business session.

There are several candidates in the presidential race. Frank Adams of Vandergrift, who was defeated two years ago by Chief William E. DeBolt of this city, present executive of the association, is attempting to land the office this year. Martin Kline of St. Clair borough believes he has the place clinched by a big margin. George W. Dias of Homestead, who arrived in the city yesterday, got into the race and to put some spice into the contest he engaged the 110th Regiment band to boost his candidacy. Peter O'Brien of Swissvale is another aspirant. He has opened headquarters at the Columbia hotel and will have the Kenwood park band on hand to aid him tomorrow, election day.

Another matter to be taken up for preliminary consideration today is the place for the 1920 gathering. "Bill" Starab, secretary of the association, who arrived here yesterday and "set up" his headquarters at the Smith house, said the boys were thinking of going to a resort, preferably Connaut lake. The matter was discussed at an impromptu gathering last night when several of the men from the various companies gathered in the street and talked over the question. It is certain to be brought before the convention, he said, and believes it will be given careful consideration.

The chief reason for holding the 1920 event at a resort is a result of the unsettled hotel situation. To avoid any inconvenience on account of inadequate hotel accommodations next year the resort place was suggested. The first water battle will be this evening at 6 o'clock in Johnston avenue, with Turtle Creek No. 1 and Creighton No. 1 teams facing each other. Water battles are on the program each evening. Friday afternoon the championship battle will be fought, with Stowe township engaging the winner of the preliminaries. Tomorrow night the delegates' hall will be staged at the armory. This is an annual event, to which no person is admitted without a delegate's badge.

ATTORNEY DUGGAN EXTENDS WELCOME TO FIREMEN

The members of the Western Pennsylvania Firemen's Association were welcomed to Connellsville this afternoon in Soisson theatre. Memorial services were conducted at 2 o'clock. In the opening address, Acting Mayor R. W. Hoover assured the delegates that this city was glad to have them and offered them everything at its disposal.

Attorney John Duggan, Jr., gave the address of welcome. "Firemen, we welcome you," he said. "The city opens its arms and extends to you its most heartfelt welcome. We don't have any keys to give you because we haven't any gates. Connellsville is always open and is always glad to have the firemen as its guests. We want you to enjoy yourselves. We say the only key to the city is your uniform, and when you leave here you will go saying that the citizens of Connellsville were glad to have you."

John P. Lowers of Swissvale, responded. "I am sure the hearts of my fellow firemen were warmed by this welcome given us," he said. "We know it is sincere and comes from the bottom of the heart."

Rev. H. J. Whalen of Greensburg, delivered the memorial address. Musical selections were given by the West Penn Quartet. Rev. J. H. Lamberton delivered the invocation.

Steamers in Crash.

NEW YORK, July 8.—The American steamship Magunkoog, which arrived today from Rotterdam, reported the sinking in a collision of the gas-toline fishing schooner Edmund F. Black of Portland, Me., off the Georges Bank fishing banks in a fog last Sunday night. The crew of eight were rescued and brought here.

Lewis Huey and John Longenecker, who recently returned from overseas, were honor guests at an all day picnic given by Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Leisher at their home at Peasbush. It was the third annual outing and was largely attended by near relatives. Various games and music were the amusement and a most enjoyable time was had by all. Twenty-eight guests were present, as follows: Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Leisher, Ralph, Elsie, Gladys, Wilbur, Gail and Glen Leisher, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. CRIME IN AMERICA ON INCREASE, SAYS CHAUTAUQUA SPEAKER

Lou J. Beauchamp Declares 77 Per Cent of Murders Are by Boys Under 22.

Crime is increasing in the United States faster than in any other country; life is valued lower here than in other sections of the world and of the many murders committed 77 per cent are at the hands of boys 9 to 22 years of age, were among the startling statements of Lou J. Beauchamp in his lecture "Take the Sunny Side" at the Chautauqua last night. A decrease in crime can be brought about by having better criminal laws and more severe punishment for the criminals.

About 700 people attended the Chautauqua the first night, despite the many counter attractions, and Superintendent Zaugg declared that the management was well pleased with the attendance. The work of the Althea violin chorus was met with hearty applause.

This afternoon Knight MacGregor appeared in a musical prelude, assisted by Clara Harold, a reader. The evening program calls for another appearance of Knight MacGregor and a lecture, "The Path of Greatest Profit," by Frank L. Mulholland.

APPROVE ATTACK

Finns May Advance on Petrograd. Council of Five Decide. By Associated Press.

PARIS, Monday, July 8.—Approval of the plan for a concerted attack upon Petrograd by Finnish troops and the forces of the Kolchak government at Omsk, was given today by the council of five.

A joint note has been sent the military attaches of the United States, Great Britain, France and Italy at Helsinki instructing them to support the Finnish government if it decided to accede to the request of Admiral Kolchak to assist him in the campaign.

There is no indication that the Allied and associated powers propose to go farther at this time in having Kolchak plan but the action in supporting the Finns is regarded as equivalent to assurances that they will see Kolchak's movement carried through.

PARADE OF 3,800 RED CROSS WOMEN

aviation; Miss Angela Stader, the Navy. All were under the direction of Mrs. F. E. Martell chairman of the committee on riders. Another mounted woman was Miss Sarah Arensburg of Brownsville.

After the mounted escort marched the 11th Infantry band. Leading the procession of marchers were the daughters of America, with Mrs. C. J. Ellis as captain and numbering about 40. Next came the floats bearing the county and local officials and a number of little girls carrying daisy parasols covered with excelsior.

Following this was the float bearing the Red Cross mother and nurses.

In order came Grandstone, captain, by Mrs. Margaret Pizzano, and Perry township.

Next was the grand Conneltsville delegation, escorted by the Conneltsville Military band, and led by Mrs. W. R. Kopey, general chairman of the parade committee.

Poplar Grove had a goodly representation. Next to Poplar Grove marched an aged woman in black. She came without the white costume, but she was too anxious to march and because of the fact that she had a son in overseas service it was readily agreed to.

Dunbar, led by Mrs. L. S. Kerchner and Mrs. Barrett, appeared in line with a delegation of 102 persons. Marching next to Dunbar were the Victory Girls, 15 in number, in pretty formation.

The Junior Red Cross Girls, 125 in number and wearing red, white and blue caps of overseas type, made up a leading feature. Trinity Lutheran church was represented by about 39 girls carrying the church service flag.

The Women's Benefit Association of the Macabees, captained by Mrs. Eleanor Ashe and led by eight Junior Macabees girls, formed a pretty part of the procession.

Then came the church delegations—the Baptist, Methodist, Protestant, the German Lutheran and Christian. The ladies of the Golden Eagle were well represented.

Thirty to forty marched in the Vanderbit delegation with a banner bearing "Vanderbit Fancywork Club."

The "Human Red Cross," made up of young women, was a beautiful part of the parade. They were drilled by Lieutenant Dana Wright. The cross was formed of 35 persons. Mrs. W. J. Bailey had charge of this feature. Miss Taylor of Philadelphia, was captain.

Mrs. S. R. Goldsmith was at the wheel of the H. C. Frick ambulance. After it came the Dickerson Run band and winding up the procession the colored Red Cross contingent of Conneltsville.

In a pony cart, driven by little Annette Dull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dull, rode Helen Matthews, Emil Higbee, Anna Ruth Darr and Mae Conner Sterling of Uniontown. Flanking the cart were Bill Rice and Anna Mae Templeton.

Caputo's Pittsburgh band was the third in the formation, it leading the St. Rita delegation.

WOMEN'S WORK MADE MEN BETTER FIGHTERS

"The soldiers of the 110th Infantry and the American Expeditionary Forces fought more bravely and more cheerfully sacrificed in the war against Germany because they knew that the women in Fayette-county and all over the United States, the best women God ever created, were at home working for them and praying for them," declared J. MOYER SUFFERER GETS OVER FLU AFTER EFFECTS

Mrs. J. L. McDowell Gives the Credit to Nerv-Work in a Strong Signed Statement.

Mrs. McDowell is the wife of the well known and highly esteemed manager of a company store at Moyer, and what she says in the following endorsement, given a few days ago, will have marked weight among her many friends:

Connellsville Drug Co.—Since I had the influenza I have been exceedingly nervous and weak. All run down and could not get restful sleep. Had a constant and severe pain in my back and could not find anything to give me relief. I saw statements in the papers of the great benefits others had received who had taken Nerv-Work after the "flu" so I decided to try it. One bottle did the work completely as I now sleep soundly all night and the pain in my back has ceased. I am gaining strength and weight and am getting back to my normal healthy condition. I surely want to recommend Nerv-Work to others.

COMMON SENSE PIONEERS.

Persons Going to Church in Comfort
Thus Suggested by Rev. Buckner.

Responding to the invitation of Rev. George Walker Buckner, pastor of the Christian church, to be comfortable several men appeared at church Sunday morning minus their coats while a goodly number of women removed their hats.

"Pioneers of sanctified common sense," the pastor called them in referring to the movement and inviting all to follow the new custom for comfort's sake, during the hot weather.

Mixed Summer Foods The Cause Of Much Indigestion

SUMMER days are days of careless living, kitchens too hot for cooking, cold lunches at the homes of friends, open-air picnics, with the result that many a family is down with indigestion.

Give the stomach and bowels a new start by taking a dose of a good laxative—like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Then put variety into your diet by eating more warm food. It is more easily digested.

A bottle of Syrup Pepsin can be bought at any drug store for 50c and $1, the latter the family size. It acts so gently and safely that it can be given even to a baby in constipation, indigestion, "summer colds," and similar ills.

The formula on which Syrup Pepsin is based was written by Dr. Caldwell over 30 years ago. It is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that trains the stomach-muscles to do their work naturally so that medicines can again be dispensed with. Over 6 million bottles of Syrup Pepsin are sold by druggists every year. That is recommendation in itself.

If you have never used Syrup Pepsin, send your address for a free trial bottle to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 480 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

"IN THE HANDS OF THE LAW." One of the most gripping and fascinating human dramas conceived since the mortal days of "The Ticket of Leave Man," is an interesting feature today. Everybody will want to see this attraction. The drama tells a romantic story, reveals a swift succession of startling and stirring incidents and closes with a surprise climax wholly unexpected and tensely thrilling and with prison reform as an underlying note of its main adventure. It tells of a young girl's fond wooing and surrender, the perjury of a Satyr toward his victim, the brutal cunning ruse and its punishment, and the grief of a wife suddenly bereft of her anchor. The prison scenes are the most realistic ever filmed. A selected comedy is also being shown. Tomorrow and Thursday, Mae Murray, the captivating screen star, will be presented on "The Big Little Person," her newest production.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"A ROGUE'S ROMANCE." A breezy play of adventure, starring Earle Williams, is today's feature attraction. The play deals with the final law-breaking escapade of Mons. Picard, a character similar to Arsene Lupin. A delightful romance develops when this cultured society thief finds his automobile has gone down on him, and he is in sore need of a speedy vehicle to replace it in order to escape the secret police of Paris, who are at last hot upon his trail. Mr. Williams' leading woman is Katherine Adams and notable among his support are Brinsley Shaw, Harry Van Meter, Maude George and Karl Formes. A selected comedy is also being shown. The same attractions will also be shown tomorrow. Thursday, Betty Compson will be presented in "The Devil's Trail."

CELEBRATION NOTES

Judging by the number of soft drink stands erected by enterprising vendors throughout the city, someone must have heard that the American soldier has a very heavy thirst. Everywhere you turn a booth with some kind of ice cold beverage looms up.

A lot of strangers, everyone in uniform, are selling cheap badges and buttons about the streets. Their presence aroused the ire of the souvenir committee which has some 5,000 official badges to dispose of. These were ordered on the strength of an assurance, the members say, that these were to be the only badges put on sale.

"Johnny's in Town" seems to be a favorite with the bands. It is peculiarly appropriate for homecoming week.

Service men were a bit coy about dragging out their uniforms and donning them to give the home folks a treat but with each hour more of them appear in full military regalia. By Wednesday it is expected nearly all of them will have emerged from their home dugouts and lined up for inspection. It will be a friendly one, however, conducted by admiring friends.

Not many prettier sights have been seen in this old town than the women who marched in this morning's parade. They kept good step, too.

If Connellsville ever had a busier week than this, nobody remembers it. Homecoming, Bremen's convention and Chautauqua, all together—present some lineup of events.

"Hey, Mac, you got a button off your blouse," declared one veteran to a comrade. "You're doggone right I have," was the reply. "And I don't give a ——— so long as that's on" and he pointed to his red discharge chevron.

Not one sparkler in the "court of a million jewels" failed to shine last night.

TUESDAY EVENING, JULY 8, 1919.

THE PURPOSE AND SPIRIT.

We will miss the purpose and fail to catch the spirit of the Home-Coming Celebration if we do not keep constantly in mind the fact that it is to honor the men, living and dead, who leaped to the defense of the principles upon which our nation's foundations rest, and the women who, true to the instincts of their sex, volunteered to minister to the suffering they knew must needs come to those who go out to war.

Having completed the great task which they faced resolutely and unafraid, and having quietly and unostentatiously returned to civil life, there to take up the duties they laid down at the call to arms and service, we have been prone to all too soon forget how much of honor and credit and praise is due these men and women who so willingly subordinated their own selves for the sake of duty. They have not invited or sought, but rather have been averse, to being made heroes, feeling that had merely discharged their plain duty by coming to their country's aid in its hour of need. Modest as they are of their achievements which brought to America the well deserved credit of having won the war, they are not insensible to an appreciation of the things they did. A recognition is, therefore, due them and it should be such a recognition as will leave no doubt in their minds of the sincerity of the words or acts by which it may be expressed.

During the celebration we will have with us men prominent in public life who were in positions during the war to measure the true worth of the services rendered by the wearers of the khaki and blue and the badge of the Red Cross, who can, and will give, utterance to the sentiments that fill the heart of every loyal citizen when considering the self-sacrificing spirit by which the men of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps and the Volunteer Nurse Corps were animated. These sentiments will not come from persons who like Marshal Petain of France led men in the awful conflict which has closed, but the same motive will prompt whatever may be said—that of acknowledging in reverence the debt we owe to the men who died that civilization and human liberty might be restored to their rightful places, and in admiration of the fine courage of those who stood shoulder to shoulder with the full price, and no less mindful of the purpose and eager determination of those who were in training to take the places of those who were considered the more fortunate in having been among the first to get into the fray.

A few days ago when a great honor was paid General Petain by an institution of France, he reminded his auditors, just as Rev. Kerr, Father Coakley and Secretary Roosevelt have reminded their auditors here, of the obligation resting upon their fellow countrymen to give due honor to the men who have saved the world from the bondage of autocracy.

"My great honor and my greatest happiness," said Marshal Petain, "is to have succeeded in inculcating a sense of duty and responsibility in the soul of French soldiers before whom we have never sufficiently bowed, because he has known how to suffer and die for an ideal, to hope continually in spite of all, and, finally, to stand in the front rank of the people raised up against oppression, injustice and barbarism."

American soldiers typified these things in as full measure as did the French, hence no less of honor is due them. By every right it is theirs, and will be accorded them freely if we have the proper conception of our obligations. The Home-Coming Celebration affords that opportunity. While many will feel themselves bound somewhat closer by the ties of kinship and affection to the men of Company D and the Medical Detachment of the 110th Infantry, and others to the men of the 80th Division, and still others to the men of different units or branches of service, we must not be partial in the bestowal of our marks of appreciation. Hundreds of young men went out from Fayette in us were transferred to various units, and in other branches of the service.

The Regular Army, the Navy and Marine Corps each drew its quota of Fayette's stalwart young manhood, some to die on the blood-soaked fields of France, some in the dark waters of the sea, and others to come back bearing upon their bodies the inextinguishable scars of war.

The Home-Coming Celebration is nearly the people of Fayette county joining collectively as the people of a heartfelt word of welcome to each and every one of the county's sons who, as Rev. Watson has so aptly phrased it, "went out to answer the call of a far away need." Let us not forget this today or tomorrow, or upon any day, when we seek to convey the gratitude that is in our hearts for the magnificent service Fayette county's young men rendered in a righteous cause, and our appreciation of those who did not get across, or up to "the front," that they might also have realized their soul's desire to emulate the bravery, daring and courage that has thrilled the world with admiration for the best soldiers of them all—the doughboy of the Army, the blue jacket of the Navy, and the leatherneck of the Marines. Salute them, citizen, and a glad hand to all, that you may fulfill in your life the purpose and catch in your heart the spirit of the Home-Coming!

The old town never looked quite so gay and its visitors and residents never before felt quite so glad.

Rev. Watson, though absent, has the spirit we here at home should have each day when we greet the soldiers. "Welcome home, my boys, we are glad to see you back. Come right in and make yourself at home."

The service men must not disappoint their friends, neighbors and fair admirers tomorrow. All expect to see them in line in the uniform they honored in the wearing.

If it had been arranged in time we might have had the R-34 land at Conneltsville to round out the list of attractions for Home-Coming week.

The President will find Burleson still on the job, more's the pity.

The city cannot bar the carnival under the existing ordinance—but Acting Mayor Hoover can be depended upon to see that every objectionable feature is banned.

SPECIAL TROLLEY SERVICE

Double-Headers to be Run on West Penn for Celebration.

For tomorrow and Thursday the West Penn Railways company has arranged car service that is expected to be fully adequate to handle the crowds attending the celebration without the public being greatly inconvenienced. On the main line from Scottsdale to Uniontown double-headers will be run. Forty-minute service will be maintained on the Vanderbilt line, with double-headers if necessary. Cars will be run every 15 minutes to South Conneltsville and if necessary double service will be established as far as the switch at Davidson avenue. The running time to Uniontown on the line via Dunbar will be an hour and 15 minutes instead of an hour.

On Wednesday, to accommodate the crowds attending the Ringling circus at Greensburg, all main line cars from Scottsdale will run by way of Hunker while on the Mount Pleasant-Hecle side of the loop there will be a 30-minute headway between Meadow Mills and Greensburg.

NEW FAYETTE ROAD

On July 29 the State Highway Department at Harrisburg will open bids for 97 miles of road. The greater part of the construction will be completed before winter, says a statement. The projects include the following:

Fayette county—Route 112, Menallen township, 19,918 feet, of vitrified brick on concrete base.

Westmoreland county—Route 527, North Huntingdon township, 7,484 feet of one-course reinforced concrete; Route 117, Hempfield township, 12,065 feet, one-course reinforced concrete and vitrified hillside brick.

GRUMBLERS.

The way some fellows carry on Fault-finding with the things they see.

You'd think that once they'd lived upon A better world than this can be. An' yet I notice all the time They're utterin' their loud complaints.

They never show by faith sublime They've ever lived among the saints.

You'd think to listen to them whine That life is some far off long year. Another sphere where all was fine. It was their privilege to know.

Like foreigners that won't forget The land they left an' claim to miss They dwell among us all, an' yet They know a better earth than this.

Whenever I am forced to hear A man dissatisfied exclaim That life is desolate an' drear, An' full of bitterness an' shame, When he is grumblin' at his woes An' sneering down the things of worth, I'd like to ask him if he knows A better an' happier earth.

Is there among the million spheres That swing about us night an' day A world where all our wishes are tears An' only happy people stay, An' do the grumblers here recall That there they lived an' walked about?

If so, I'm not surprised at all, The angels roan an' kick'd 'em out.

South Conneltsville Borough To Contractors

SEALED PROPOSALS FOR THE building of a concrete walk, on the North side of Park Avenue, from Park Street to The Riley Glass Company property line (excepting where the intervening streets and alleys cross same) and also that section between First Street and the alley to the East of First Street which is completed will be received by the Borough of South Conneltsville until the 10th day of July, 1919, at office of Glenn A. Cadwallader, Borough Clerk, South Conneltsville, Pa.

The estimated quantities are 485 sq. yds. concrete walk, 58 cu. yds. excess excavation, and 20 cu. yds. of embankment.

These quantities are to be considered and taken as approximate, and the right is expressly reserved by the Council of said Borough to increase or diminish the said quantities, nor shall any change of grade, alignment or otherwise vitiate, annul or impair the contract made and entered into relative to said work, nor constitute any claim for compensation on account of prospective profit. The Contractor shall be paid for the amount of work actually performed at the rates specified in the proposal therefor and appended to this contract as part thereof. The full measure of compensation to the Contractor to be determined by the Borough Engineer, whose final estimate of said work shall be conclusive evidence therefor and of binding force.

The Prices bid are to cover the furnishing of all materials entering into the construction of the work and the necessary labor and tools required to perform the work in strict accordance with the plans and specifications of said work.

Bidders will be required to accompany their proposal with a certified check for One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars, which certified check shall be held as security for the payment of any difference between the sum to which the Contractor would be entitled on the completion of the work at the price stated in the proposal, and that which the Council of said Borough may be obliged to pay to any higher bidder at any subsequent letting, should he refuse to sign the agreement or perform the work satisfactorily in accordance with the plans and specifications, and for all damages which may arise from the non-fulfillment of the contract in any manner whatsoever.

The party or parties to whom the contract shall be awarded will be required within five (5) days from the date of award, to sign the agreement, and in case of failure to do so, he or they will be considered as having abandoned it and as in default of said Council of said Borough and thereupon the said Council of said Borough may re-advertise said work to be re-let as before and so on until the contract be accepted and agreement executed.

In no case will the Contractor be allowed to use materials other than those of the quality and dimensions prescribed in the plans and specifications, or which may be specified by the said Council of said Borough.

Bidders will examine for themselves the location of the proposed work so that no misapprehension may exist in regard to the nature of the work to be done.

The right to reject any and all bids is reserved.

Plans and Specifications can be seen at the Office of the said Council of said Borough, located at Borough Building, South Conneltsville, and at the Office of Joseph A. Graft, Borough Engineer, 507 First National Bank Building, Conneltsville, Pa. 74141-tues that men want now. Plain blue and black serges, standard grays, some nice striped effects, and some blue and black unfinished worsteds, are what we are offering you in men's clothing. The way prices are soaring on goods by the yard, men who know would hardly expect such reasonable prices as we are now offering. Few men know just what they want in a suit until they go to the store, and as a rule a man with ordinary judgment will buy what strikes his fancy first. Our assortment is confined to staples, you can't miss it whatever selection you make, and our prices are reasonable. Of course it is taken for granted that everything in the way of prices are abnormal, and clothing is no exception. We have a very complete assortment of boys' and children's suits, in knickerbockers and long trousers, very choice lines of men's and boys' headwear and footwear. We do not want to brag or blow, it is not our style, but we do make this assertion and can substantiate it—You can save money in buying these lines at one of our stores.

Back in the time of "mangles" and "bleaches"—you didn't expect much more from your laundry than a sort of rough and ready cleaning service.

But now, when washday troubles bear upon you and you seek a laundry that will give your family bundle the considerate attention it should have, you want:

Inconspicuous marking of clothing and Moderate prices.

These are the ideals upon which we have developed OUR FAMILY LAUNDRY SERVICE.

57 ITALIANS ASK PROTECTION; SAY THEY'RE IN PERIL

Mount Pleasant Council Receives Unique Petition From Residents.

DISCUSS THE PORCH ORDINANCE

Builders Declare They Did Not Know Their Structures Did Not Comply With Law; Act Will Be Strictly Enforced; Soldier Is Offered Old Job.

Special to The Courier
MOUNT PLEASANT, July 3.—Council held its regular monthly meeting last evening. The burgess' report was read and accepted, fines, permits and licenses for the month totaling $45.

A petition was read from 57 Italians asking for all-night police protection because they felt their lives were in danger. This was referred to the police committee for investigation.

A petition was read from citizens on Center avenue asking that the street on up as far as it had been curbed be paved. A motion was adopted to have an ordinance drawn covering the paving.

Men were then called to appear before council on account of not complying with the ordinance regulating the width of porches. L. S. Rhodes, Frank Cooper, D. F. Lowe, James Cunningham and Roy Crosby were summoned. All of the men stated that they had no intention of breaking an ordinance and really did not know just what the ordinance was. After several hours' discussion it was stated that since there was such an ordinance it should be enforced. Finally a resolution was adopted that the chief burgess be requested to enforce ordinance No. 49 measure strictly.

August Robinson was present and asked for $60 to send delegates to the firemen's convention in Connellsville this week.

A report was read of inspection made of all poles in town by Lyle Morris and a motion was adopted that the secretary be instructed to notify all companies maintaining poles in the borough to replace all dangerous ones and to remove all dead poles in the borough within 10 days.

The police committee was instructed to wait on William Howells, who was a member of the police force when he left for France, and see if he wished to serve on a police force again.

NOT AN ACCIDENT

Occurred on First Day of Celebration; A Fine Record.

The wisdom of the precautions taken and the effectiveness of the plans worked out by the emergency safety department were well illustrated by the record of yesterday. Notwithstanding the large number of persons on the streets not a single accident was reported to have occurred.

The traffic regulations were observed with exactness by the automobile owners and drivers. The plan of marking the streets where parking is permitted and where not proved very satisfactory, as also the one-way rule on the streets in the congested section of the city. But one machine was tagged for violation of the parking rules.

Candidate For Sheriff

George Miller

I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for sheriff of Fayette county. In presenting my candidacy to the consideration of the voters of the county I desire to call attention to the fact that I have always been an ardent supporter of the Republican party and its principles. If given the nomination and selected at the November election, I pledge myself to give to the county an efficient administration of the office.

I shall make an effort personally to meet each voter during the coming campaign and any consideration shown by my friends and fellow workers in my behalf will be greatly appreciated.

GEORGE MILLER.

Demand for Tickets From Out of Town Sources Greater Than Anticipated.

MUCH INTEREST AROUSED

Never Before Has Boxing Program Stirred Up So Much Comment or Enthusiasm; Success Is Assured; Will Be Final Celebration Feature.

The success of the Britton-Doty championship bout for the welter-weight title of the world, is assured from a financial standpoint, judging from the advance demand for tickets. Tony Bufano, chairman of the athletic committee, who arranged for the champion and his most dangerous challenger to fight for the title here, said yesterday that the receipts from tickets sold to persons living outside the county would be much greater than had been anticipated.

Doty and Britton will both be in the city today and have sent word ahead that they are in excellent condition. The backers of the challenger are certain he will topple the crown from Britton's head tomorrow, but the champ's friends firmly believe Jack will be able to take care of himself.

The referee question is still in doubt. If Jack Dempsey can be secured he will be the third man in the ring without question. However, if the new heavyweight champion cannot come, Jim Stout, of Milwaukee, will officiate at the big scrap.

No more attractive bill has ever been arranged in Fayette county. Many prominent fighters have appeared here and elsewhere in the county, but never before was a championship fight staged in this part of Western Pennsylvania. This fact alone will serve to draw many to the fight who would otherwise not attend.

The program will open at 1:30 o'clock with the Charleroi midgits, this will be followed by other preliminaries. The main bout will begin at 5 o'clock. The parade tomorrow will be disbanded at the park.

WORLD SERIES HERO
BACK WITH PIRATES

Babe Adams, Veteran Pitcher, Will Try to Come Back.

After Being Dropped by Pittsburgh in 1917, He Drifted Into Western League and Then to Kansas City—Made Good.

Charles B. ("Babe") Adams, hero of the 1909 world series, will try to come back with the Pittsburgh Pirates this year. Adams is thirty-five years old and a real veteran as pitchers go.

It was in 1916 that Adams took the tobyragan with the Pirates and was labeled as through by the scribes. His pitching for that year was more or less of a joke, for he won but two games and succeeded in losing nine more before Barney Dreyfus made up his mind to let his veteran star go.

In 1917 Adams drifted into the Western league, signed up with Jack Holland at Hutchinson and staged a comeback that surprised everybody. He won 20 games of ball for the Hutchinson team and lost 13, and he was rated as one of the hardest working pitchers in the league, which has always been noted as a league that harbors many a hard-hitting youngster, and many a crafty old-timer who is on his way back.

Adams' record with the Hutchinson club won him a trial with John Gansel at Kansas City last season and during the abbreviated pennant race in which the Blues won the pennant Adams captured 14 games of ball and lost but three for the Kansas City club.

This fact won him his chance to try a real comeback with the Pirates this year and his boosters are predicting that he will make good.

Adams emblazoned his name in baseball's hall of fame back in 1909 when he played the role of hero of the world's series between Pittsburgh and Detroit. He pitched the first game for the Pirates against George Mullin and won it by a count of 4-1. Then, after Bill Donovan had beaten Villis and Mullin had trimmed Leifield, while Maddox sandwiched a victory over Sammers in between these two games, Adams came back to the mound with the count of two all and Pittsburgh made eight runs for him, while he held Detroit to four. Mullin came back in the sixth game for Detroit and won it, and Adams won his third game and the series when he shut out the Tigers 8 to 0 in the final contest.

HOD ELLER IN FREAK GAMES

Red Pitcher Slaughtered by Cubs and Then He Turns in a No-Hit Game Against Cardinals.

Hod Eller of the Reds seems fated to figure in freak games. He held the Cubs helpless until near the finish, when they slaughter him and win a game in which they did not seem to have a chance. Then he turns in a no-hit game against the Cardinals. Next he performs in that wild Cincinnati-Brooklyn affair of May 15, when his team scores ten runs in the thirteenth inning. Whenever Hod is in there, something is bound to happen.

Dick Durning continues on his way. Brooklyn sent him to Louisville, Louisville sent him to Toledo and now Toledo sends him to Waterbury.

George Sisler the other day made one of the plays which made T. R. Cobb famous as a base runner, when he scored from second on an infield out. It gave his team the winning run in the tenth inning.

CONNIE MACK WAS MISTAKEN

Manager's Prediction That He Would Assemble Strong Team So Far Has Not Materialized.

When Connie Mack disrupted his great team after the 1914 world's series, selling Collins, Baker, Barry, Shaukey and Murphy and casting adrift Bender, Plank and Coombs, he said: "I'll have players just as good two years from now." But Connie has now discovered that roses do not grow on every bush. After four consecutive tailenders since 1914 he seems to have a team this year that is even more of a joke than some of his previous clubs. Last year Connie had a respectable tailender. One can't even say that for this year's team.

CUBAN PLAYERS ARE TAKING VITAL PART

Cuban players are going to play a vital part in the National league race this season. Mike Gonzales, catcher of the Giants, formerly of the St. Louis Cardinals, gradually is rounding into his best form and promises to play a leading part in the Giant campaign. Adolfo Luque, pitcher of the Cincinnati Reds, shows signs of future value and has one of the fastest breaking curves in the league, while Oscar Turo of the Cardinals, showed his class in a recent game, at the polo ground when he quelled the Giants and later subjugated the Dodgers in a hard-fought battle at Ebbets field. Armando Marsans, the Yankee veteran, has faded from the big league picture, but reports from Cuba indicate a big increase in ball players who aim to invade the big league in this country.

BASEBALL STORIES

Peckinpah shows no letup in his stickwork.

They are playing scrappy ball in the International.

Old Man East has been pitching some great ball for Sioux City.

George Johnson has resigned his job as an umpire in the American association.

Buffalo's opening day attendance in the International is said to have been less than 2,000.

C. R. Hendrix of the Chicago Cubs is one of the best batting pitchers in the major leagues.

Old Pug Cavet, with but one good eye, is proving a winner for Jack Hendricks at Indianapolis.

Pat Martin, pitcher, recently returned from overseas, has joined Binghanton in the International.

The New York fans are looking for the guy who wrote those immortal lines, "The Yanks are coming."

The St. Louis Browns are certainly setting a pretty fast pace in the American league race just now.

Tom Lukashovic, the young pitcher who was destined to get the Coast league by the ears, failed to come across.

Lieutenant Colonel Little of the fourth division, led 1261 marksmen in the American army tournament at Le Mans, France.

A. Schulz, who played with the Brewers during the training season, is going along nicely for the Joplin club of the Western league.

The veteran Jack Lewis will be out of the Memphis lineup indefinitely. His injury is a jaw battered by a foul ball.

The Browns have been called the "wonder team." Everybody is wondering where they will finish.

Bill Schwartz, succeeding Arthur Devlin as manager of the Norfolk Tars, is getting a lot of praise.

McGinnity has lost most of his speed of former days, but his good control and deceptive underhand ball still enable him to fool the minor league batters. The "Iron Man" was one of the leading pitchers in the Pacific Coast International league last season. He won nine games and lost two for a percentage of .519.

DISLIKES 16-PLAYER LIMIT

On Account of Numerous Injuries to Men on His Team, Manager Herr Wants an Increase.

Eddie Herr of the Salt Lake Bees is one manager who absolutely does not believe in the 16-player limit. Eddie has had several scrapes on his team during the past few weeks, and has been handicapped in that respect so badly that he is overanxious to see an increase in the player limit. At the present time the Bees are in a rather crippled condition, and Eddie claims that, with the great attendance going on, there must be real playing as a return to the fans for their generosity in turning out to the games. Eddie says that the league is drawing big enough crowds to lift the ban.

SMITHS, MILLERS, JONES

Names Are Quite Prominent on Rosters of Various Major League Clubs This Season.

The names of Smith, Miller and Jones are quite prominent on the roster of the various major league clubs. A glance over the lineups shows Edger Smith with the Senators, Sherrod Smith with the Robins, Jack with the Cardinals, George with the Giants, Earl with the Browns, Jimmy with the Reds, and J. Carlisle with the Braves. Jack Miller is with the Cardinals, Otto with the Robins, Elmer remains with the Yanks, and Frank is with the Pirates. The Jones family is represented by Bobby of the Tigers, Sam of the Red Sox, John Paul of the Giants and Johnny of the Yankees.

Walter Golvin, Mobile first baseman, has reported to his club after service in Siberia, Russia.

There were people—grown people they were—who expressed themselves longingly; they did hope to live to see the day, they said, when that boy would get his come-uppance! (They used that honest word, so much better than "deserts," and not until many years later to be more closely rendered as "what is coming to him.") Something was bound to take him down some day, and they only wanted to be there! But George heard nothing of this, and the years for his taking down went unassisted, while their yearning grew the greater as the happy day of fulfillment grew longer postponed.

CHAPTER III.

Until he reached the age of twelve George's education was a domestic process; tutors came to the house, and those citizens who yearned for his taking down often said: "Just wait till he has to go to public school; then he'll get it!" But at twelve George was sent to a private school in the town, and there came from this small and independent institution no report, or even rumor, of George's getting anything that he was thought to deserve; therefore the yearning still persisted, though growing gaunt with feeding upon itself.

The yearners were still yearning when George at sixteen was sent away to a great "prep school." "Now," they said, brightly, "he'll get it!" He'll find himself among boys just as important in their home town as he is, and they'll knock the stuffing out of him when he puts on his airs with them! Oh, but that would be worth something to see! They were mistaken. It appeared, for when George returned a few months later he still seemed to have the same stuffing. He had been dejected by the authorities, the offense being stated as "insolence and profanity," in fact, he had given the principal of the school instructions almost identical with those formerly objected to by the Rev. Malloch Smith.

But he had not got his come-uppance, and those who counted upon it were embittered by his appearance upon the downtown streets during a do-cart at a criminal speed, making pedestrians retreat from the crossings, and behaving himself as if he "owned the earth."

When Mr. George Amberson Minafer came home for the holidays at Christmastide in his sophomore year, probably no great change had taken place inside him, but his exterior was visibly altered. "Nothing about him encouraged any hope that he had received his come-uppance; on the contrary, the yearners for that stroke of justice must yearn even more itchingly; the gilded youth had become polite, but his politeness was of a kind which democratic people found hard to bear."

Cards were out for a ball in his honor, and this pageant of the township was held in the ballroom of the Amberson mansion the night after his arrival. It was as Mrs. Henry Franklin Foster said of Isabel's wedding, "a big Amberson style thing." All "old citizens" recognized as gentry received cards, and of course so did their dancing descendants.

The orchestra and the caterer were brought from away, in the Amberson manner, though this was really a gesture—perhaps one more of habit than of ostentation—for servants of gentry as proud as these importations were nowadays to be found in the town. It was the last of the great, long-remembered dances that "everybody talked about"—there were getting to be so many people in town that no later than the next year there were too many for "everybody" to hear of even such a ball as the Ambersons'.

George, white-gloved, with a gardenia in his buttonhole, stood with his mother and the Major, empowered in the big red-and-gold drawing room downstairs, to "receive" the guests; and, standing thus together, the trio offered a picturesque example of good looks persistent through three generations. The Major, his daughter and his grandson were of a type all Amberson: tall, straight and regular, with dark eyes, short noses, good chins; and the grandfather's expression, no less than the grandson's, was one of faintly amused condescension. There was a difference, however. The grandson's untamed young face had nothing to offer except this condescension; the grandfather's had other things to say. It was a handsome, worldly old face, conscious of its importance, but persuasive rather than arrogant, and not without tokens of sufferings withstood. The Major's short white hair was parted in the middle, like his grandson's, and in all he stood as briskly equipped to the fashion as the exquisite young George.

Isabel, standing between her father and her son, caused a vague amazement in the mind of the latter. Her face, just under forty, was for George a thought of something as remote as the moons of Jupiter, he could not possibly have conceived such an age ever coming to be his own five years was the limit of his thinking in time. Five years ago he had been a child not yet fourteen; and those five years were an abyss. Five years hence he would be almost twenty-four; what the girls he knew called "one of the older men." He could imagine himself at twenty-four, but beyond that his powers staggered and refused the task. He saw little essential difference between thirty-eight and eighty-eight, and his mother was "him not a woman but wholly a mother." The woman, Isabel, was a stranger to her son; as completely a stranger as if he had never in his life seen her or heard her voice. And it was tonight, while he stood with her, "receiving," that he caught a disquieting glimpse of this stranger whom he thus fleetingly encountered for the first time.

Youth cannot imagine romance apart from youth. That is why the roles of the heroes and heroines of plays are given by the managers to the most youthful actors they can find among the competent. Both middle-aged people and young people enjoy a story about young lovers; but only middle-aged people will tolerate a play about middle-aged lovers; young people will not come to see such a play, because for them middle-aged is a joke—not a very funny one.

Therefore, to bring both the middle-aged people and the young people into his house, the manager makes his romance as young as he can. Youth will indeed be served, and its profound instinct is to be not only scornfully amused but vaguely angered by middle-aged romance. So, standing beside his mother, George was disturbed by a sudden impression, coming upon him out of nowhere, so far as he could detect, that her eyes were brilliant, that she was graceful and youthful—in a word that she was romantically lovely.

He had one of those curious moments that seem to have neither a cause nor any connection with actual things. There was nothing in either her looks or her manner to explain George's uncomfortable feeling; and yet it increased, becoming suddenly a vague resentment, as if she had done something unmotherly to him.

The fantastic moment passed; and even while it lasted he was doing his duty, greeting two pretty girls with whom he had grown up, as people say, warmly assuring them that he remembered them very well—an assurance which might have surprised them "in anybody but George Amberson." It seemed unnecessary, since he had spent many hours with them no longer than the preceding August. They had with them their parents and an uncle from out of town; and George negligently gave the parents the same assurance he had given the daughters, but murmured another form of greeting to the out-of-town uncle, whom he had never seen before. This person George absently took note of as a "queer looking duck." Undergraduates had not yet adopted "bird." It was a period previous to that in which a sophomore would have thought of the Sharon girls' uncle as a "queer-looking bird," or, perhaps, a "tongue-face bird." In George's time every human male was to be defined at pleasure as a "duck," but "duck" was not spoken with admiring affection, as in its former feminine use to signify a "dear"—on the contrary "duck" implied the speaker's personal detachment and humorous superiority. An indifferent amusement was what George felt when his mother, with a gentle emphasis, interrupted his interchange of courtesies with the nieces to present him to the queer-looking duck, their uncle. This emphasis of Isabel's though slight, enabled George to perceive that she considered the queer-looking duck a person of some importance; but it was far from enabling him to understand why. The duck parted his thick and longish black hair on the side, his tie was a forgetful-looking thing, and his coat, though it fitted a good-enough middle-aged figure, no product of this year, or of last year either. Observing only his unfashionable hair, his preoccupied tie and his old coat, the Olympic George set him down as a queer-looking duck, and having thus completed his portrait took no interest in him.

The Sharon girls passed on, taking the queer-looking duck with them, and George became pink with mortification as his mother called his attention to a white-bearded guest waiting to shake his hand. This was George's great-uncle, old John Minafer. It was old John's boast that in spite of his connection with the Ambersons he never had worn and never would wear a smaller-tail coat. Members of his family had exerted their influence uselessly—at eighty-nine conservative people seldom form radical new habits, and old John wore his "Sunday suit" of black broadcloth to the Amberson ball. The coat was square, with skirts to the knees; old John called it a "Prince Albert" and was well enough pleased with it, but his great-nephew considered it the next thing to an insult.

The large room had filled, and so had the broad hall and the rooms on the other side of the hall where there were tables for whist. The imported orchestra waited in the ballroom on the third floor, but a local harp, cello, violin and flute were playing airs from "The Fencing Master" in the hall, and people were shouting over the music. Old John Minafer's voice was louder and more penetrating than any other because he had been troubled with deafness for twenty-five years, heard his own voice but faintly, and liked to hear it. "Smell o' flowers like this always puts me in mind o' funerals," he kept telling his niece, Fanny Minafer, who was with him; and he seemed to get a great deal of satisfaction out of this reminder. His tremulous yet strident voice cut through the voluminous sound that filled the room and he was heard everywhere.

Presently George's mortification was increased to hear this sawmill droning harshly from the midst of the thickening crowd: "Ain't the dancin' broke out yet, Fanny? Hoopla! Let's push through and go see the young women folks crack their heels! Start the circus! Hoopay-daisy!" Miss Fanny Minafer, in charge of the lively veteran, was almost as distracted as her nephew George, but she did her duty and managed to get old John through the press and out to the broad staircase, which numbers of young people were now ascending to the ballroom. George began to recover from the degradation into which this relic of early settler days had dragged him. What restored him completely was a dark-eyed little beauty of nineteen, very knowing in lustrous blue and jet, at sight of this dashing advent in the line of guests before him George was fully an Amberson again.

"Remember you very well indeed!" he said, his graciousness more earnest than any he had heretofore displayed. Isabel heard him and laughed.

"But you don't, George!" she said. "You don't remember her yet, though of course you will." Miss Morgan is from out of town, and I'm afraid this is the first time you've ever seen her.

"You Don't Remember Her Yet, Though of Course You Will!"

You might take her up to the dancing; I think you've pretty well done your duty here."

"Be delighted," George responded formally, and offered his arm, not with a flourish, certainly but with an impressiveness inspired partly by the appearance of the person to whom he offered it, partly by his being the hero of this fete, and partly by his youthfulness—for when manners are new they are apt to be elaborate. The little beauty trusted her gloved fingers to his coat sleeve, and they moved away together.

As he conducted Miss Morgan through the hall toward the stairway they passed the open double doors of a cardroom, where some squadrons of older people were preparing for action and, leaning gracefully upon the mantelpiece of this room a tall, thin, handsome, high-mannered and sparklingly pointed device, held laughing converse with that queer-looking duck, the Sharon girls' uncle. The tall gentleman waved a gracious salutation to George, and Miss Morgan's curiosity was stirred. "Who is that?"

"I didn't catch his name when my mother presented him to me," said George. "You mean the queer-looking duck?"

"I mean the aristocratic duck."

"That's my Uncle George. Honorable George Amberson. I thought everybody knew him."

"He looks as though everybody ought to know him," she said. "It seems to run in your family."

If she had any sly intention it skipped over George's headless. "Well, of course, I suppose most everybody does," he admitted—"out in this part of the country especially. Besides Uncle George is in congress, the family like to have someone there."

"Why?"

"Well, it's sort of a good thing in one way. For instance, Uncle Sydney Amberson and his wife, Aunt Amelia, they haven't much of anything to do with themselves—get bored to death around here of course. Well, probably Uncle George'll have Uncle Sydney appointed minister or ambassador or something like that, to Russia or Italy or somewhere, and that'll make it pleasant when any of the rest of the family go travelling or things like that. I expect to do a good deal of travelling myself when I get out of college."

Sydney was an Amberson exaggerated—more pompous than gracious, too portly, flushed starched to a shine his stately jaw furnished with an old sword the seventh beard. Amelia, likewise full bodied, showed glittering blond hair exuberantly dressed, a pink fat face cold under a white hot glare; a solid cold bosom under a white-hot necktie, great cold, gloved arms, and the rest of her beautifully upholstered. As George ascended the broad stairway they were precisely the aunt and uncle he was most pleased to point out to a girl from out of town, as his appearances in the way of relatives. At sight of them the grandeur of the Amberson family was instantly conspicuous as a permanent thing it was impossible to doubt that the Ambersons were intrenched. In their nobility and riches, behind polished and glittering barriers which were as solid as they were brilliant, and would last.

PROMINENT BASEBALL PLAYERS POSSESS LITTLE FAIDS OF ONE KIND OR ANOTHER

Many ball players have faids of one kind and another. A brief list might be instructive.

Lena Blackburne, who has played shortstop on many teams, collects pen-pennants from the various cities he visits.

Joe Benz has an account of every game he has ever pitched pasted away in a scrap book.

Dutch Leonard has a passion for talking machines, and spends much of his spare cash purchasing records.

Strong for Flowers.

Eddie Collins is "strong" for flowers, and picks up a rose bush here and a new kind of plant there for his garden, back in a suburb of Philadelphia.

A large number of players keep scrap books. Ed Walsh has a pile of them large enough to stock a small library. Few players have had so many features written about them as Walsh has enjoyed, and many a day he has fled from one to four pages in his book.

Ed also picked up pictures of himself in action, and has fixed up a baseball den at his home in Meriden, Conn., which is said to be one of the finest of its kind in the country.

Eddie Cicotte is another who keeps a scrap book. His fondest hope is some day to place on a count of his no-hit game in this volume. He has nearly everything else.

While on the coast this spring he visited Jack Fournier, former Sox and Yankee, at his home in a Los Angeles hotel, writes Malcolm MacLean in Detroit Free Press. Jack is one of the coast's star players and seems certain to be back in the majors again before the year is out.

His room was bare of ornaments—unless a wardrobe and trunk could be considered such—and the only objects in sight were two scrap books on a table beside the water pitcher. Many of the clippings in his books refer to him as the Frenchman, which he collects with great delight. "You know," he confided, "I was born in Michigan."

Had Great Time. "I had a great time when I played with Montreal," he continued. "The French fans took me to their hearts. I actually heard one of them tell another that I couldn't understand any English except a few words like 'ball,' 'strike,' and others used in playing the pastime. "And I didn't have to buy many dinners in Montreal, either. I had one or more invitations every night at one of the French homes, and I had one swell year of it. Many of them called me Jacques Fionyen, and I could often hear them yelling that at me when I was at bat."

Before closing we might state that the Angels have a hitting trio that compares favorably with many of those in the majors—Fournier bats third, Sam Crawford, former Tiger, fourth, and then comes Rube Ellis, ex-Cardinal.

PIRATES UNCOVER STAR

The Pittsburgh Pirates have a coming all-around star in Clifford Lee. He is a sub catcher, but he recently proved his worth as an outfielder when Casey Stengel was banished from a game against the Phillies. Lee pulled down a swift fly from the hat of Cravath near the Phillies' flagpole, walked once and hit twice safely in four trips to the plate.

OPINION OF ARBITER KLEM

Veteran Umpire Says All Players Are Battling as if Life Depended Upon Outcome.

Take it from Bill Klem, veteran umpire of the National league, the current pennant campaign is going to be one of the most bitterly fought races in the annals of the pastime.

Umpire Bill Klem.

Bill has inspired his way through many seasons, but he declares that not since the days of the old inter-city rivalry between New York and Chicago and New York and Pittsburgh have the players on all of the clubs fought so keenly in every contest to win as they appear to be doing now. "The old game is back," declared Klem, "make no mistake about that. The boys are all battling as if life itself hung upon the outcome of the chase. That is the spirit that makes baseball the most popular of all sports. And while they are fighting every step of the journey there has been a praiseworthy lack of disorderly conduct on the field for which I am sure the fans are grateful."

PLAYED IN GAS MASKS

Frank Gowdy tells of playing one inning of a ball game over in France with the players wearing gas masks, against a team made up of Twenty-sixth division boys. Frank pitched, and of course his team won, 4 to 3, but the wonder of it to him and to all others who have worn these gas masks was his center fielder catching a fly while peering through the dim paces.

BASEBALL STORIES

Alaska will revive its twilight baseball league.

The Salt Lake club has dropped the veteran Ed Willett.

Claiming the pennant now is like dancing around a May pole in December.

Truck Hannah, catcher of the Yankees, is a heavy hitter. He's also a heavy runner.

Jack Tait, the Canadian middle distance amateur runner, is playing baseball with the veteran nine of the Toronto Senior league.

The grand stand managers at Bridgeport are panicking Manager Grimes for releasing Outfielder Mitterling and Outfielder Klem.

Cuban Stars baseball team of Havana will shortly begin a tour of cities of the eastern part of this country, opening in New York city.

There is one thing about Fletcher as a shortstop. He plays grounders. So few of them bounce badly away from him as they do with others.

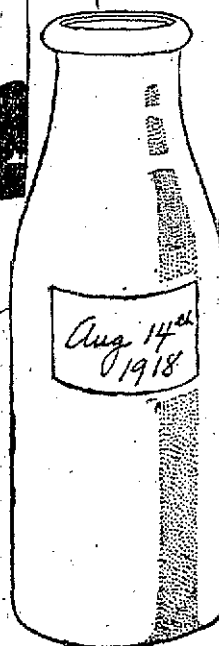

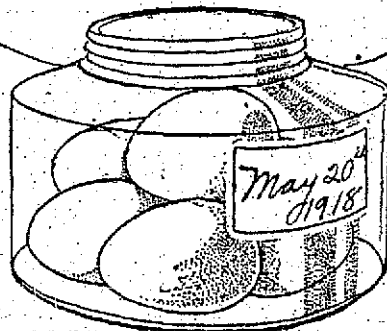

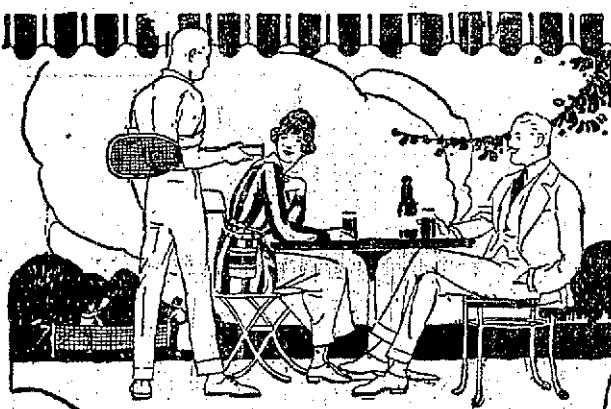

Roy Patterson, after celebrating his forty-first birthday, went out and pitched a neat victory for Minneapolis over Milwaukee.

Manager Coleman of Mobile released Pitcher Arthur Johnson, though he had won four and lost but two for a second division club.

When Manager Miller Huggins of the New York Yankees was in St. Louis he had a conference with Hugh High, his batting coach, as a result of which High agreed to report to Vernon of the Coast league.

Dairy Products 12 to 18 months old—perfect in form and flavor!

NOTE:—The same remarkable new process that keeps milk, butter and eggs sweet and fresh for months, is used in making Kovar Beverages.

Every technical statement approved by H. C. M. Franks, the inventor of the process, which for the purpose of this advertising is called the Kovar Process. Address care of American Beverages Conservation Company, Mechanics Bank Building, East New York, New York City, N. Y.

What kills the natural flavor in ordinary beverages?

THE real tang of Sazer Hops! The full rich taste of cereals! The fresh aroma of oranges and apples!

Do you get these natural flavors in the beverages you drink?

In ordinary beverages the natural flavor is lost. Most manufacturers do not know how to protect the original flavor of cereals and fruits.

Chemical preservatives—heat treatment—cold storage—these are the ordinary methods of "preserving" foodstuffs and beverages. And invariably these old-fashioned methods injure the true flavor.

A wonderful new process that protects natural flavors

The chief reason that foodstuffs and fruits do not keep fresh indefinitely is the free oxygen which they contain, which gives the bacilli of decay and putrefaction their opportunity to destroy them for purposes of human consumption. It is to counteract the effect of this oxygen that all the old-fashioned methods of "preserving" are used.

Today an eminent scientist has perfected a remarkable new process, which eliminates free oxygen and substitutes a harmless inactive gas.

By this process foodstuffs or cereals can be kept fresh for years with their natural full flavor absolutely unchanged. In our laboratory, we have butter, eggs and milk in their natural form—put up from one to five years ago—all perfect in form and flavor today.

This wonderful new process—the Kovar Process—is patented. Piel Brothers, internationally famous for fine beverages for 35 years, are its first American licensees. It is used in preparing the Kovar Beverages.

In each one of our beverages this process protects the full, natural flavor of the cereals and fresh fruits.

That is why the Kovar Beverages have a sparkle and a tang all their own. They are a new kind of soft drinks—delicious drinks that really satisfy your thirst.

Six beverages—each one with a full, delightful flavor

Six Kovar Beverages are already offered for sale. Each has the delicious, natural flavor of its ingredients.

Piel's Kovar (light) and Piel's Kovar (dark)—foaming and delicious with the true tang of real Sazer Hops!

Piel's Kovar Ale—all the qualities of good ale—light, creamy, nutritious.

Piel's Ginger Ale—with a satisfying, snappy tingle all its own.

Piel's Apple Ale—a temperance Champagne—with the delicious taste of fresh apples.

Piel's Orangeade—made with best fresh oranges and pure sugar—a delightful drink. Bits of pulp present in Piel's Orangeade prove that it is made from fresh fruit and is not a synthetic product.

Every one of these drinks is absolutely a temperance drink by any test and is so guaranteed by Piel Brothers.

Drawn-from-the-wood

You can get these drinks—by the bottle or glass—all-the-year-round at almost any place beverages are sold.

We supply special half and quarter kegs and handsome "drawing cabinets", so you can get your favorite Kovar Beverage "drawn-from-the-wood" at drug stores, soda fountains, restaurants, cigar stores, etc.

The Kovar Beverages, bottled, are packed in cases of 2 dozen bottles and in cases or drums of 10 and 12 dozen bottles. In bulk we put them up and ship them in our specially sterilized kegs—"halves" and "quarters".

The popularity of these drinks grows daily. Dealers who have started to sell them, are now re-ordering the different Piel Beverages—in car-load lots. Try any of the Piel drinks today—and you'll see why millions of Americans enjoy their individual tang and flavor.

KONETCHY POPULAR WITH DODGER FANS

Former St. Louis Veteran Is Vital Factor in Brooklyn.

Manager Robinson Made No Mistake When He Picked First Baseman to Fill Gap Left by Departure of Jake Daubert.

Jake Daubert, veteran first baseman of the Dodgers, may have been popular in his heyday in Flatbush, but it is safe to say, Ed Konetchy's popularity will soon match that of Jacobus if the one-time Brave and Cardinal veteran continues to be the vital factor he is today in the Dodger drive.

Ed Konetchy.

Unearth a first baseman who could approach the veteran Daubert. Ask any fan today, however, what he thinks of Konetchy and undoubtedly he would tell you that the big Polo had filled Daubert's shoes more efficiently; that, in fact, he would prefer to have Konetchy on the Dodgers instead of Daubert, because Konetchy still is at his best, hitting all kinds of pitching and playing a bang-up game as well, whereas Jake has not yet had the good fortune to get started properly with the Reds.

JIM SHAW EQUALED RECORD

Slammed Homers Off Pitchers Seibold and Kinney of Athletics in Successive Innings.

When Jim Shaw of Washington, on May 2, slammed homers off Seibold and Kinney of the Athletics, in successive innings, Jim equaled a major league record that has stood since June 30, 1912, for on this latter date, Ed Willett, the Tigers' star hurler of long ago, while pitching for Detroit, slammed a single and a pair of round trips off Magrigo and Jordan, the White Sox hurlers. A delve through the National league for 15 years back failed to show a hurler that equaled this stunt.

FINE PATRIOTIC ADDRESSES FEATURE MONDAY PROGRAM; KEYSTONE TROOPS PRAISED

Addresses thrillingly patriotic were delivered at Davidson Grove yesterday afternoon by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt, Judge J. F. O'Connor of the Cambria county courts, and Dr. James Moses, a well known colored orator of Philadelphia. A large crowd was on hand and the meeting will go down as one of the most interesting of the homecoming celebration.

Bolshevism can never gain the ascendancy in America declared Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the United States Navy, in his address at the mass meeting in Davidson Grove yesterday afternoon. "Bolshevism won't go in this country," said the speaker, "because we went so far beyond Bolshevism in 1789, when the constitution was made, that we will never go that far back again."

Speaking of the work of the Navy, Secretary Roosevelt declared that it was American ideas carried into execution that brought the Hun submarine warfare to a crisis, insofar as the German hopes of success in the war were concerned. Carrying out the American idea, he said, defensive warfare with the submarine was shortly converted into an offensive campaign. This plan included the laying of mines—hundreds of miles of them—across the mouth of the Adriatic, across the English Channel and across the northwest opening of the North Sea, also the equipping of fleets of vessels with depth bombs and other means of riding the seas of the pests. It was simply a matter of "going after the other fellow instead of letting him go after us," Secretary Roosevelt said.

Speaking of the transportation of troops, Mr. Roosevelt pointed with pride to the fact that not a single life was lost on a troop ship conveyed by the American navy, while only one of all the many transports sent across under British convoy was successfully attacked. He paid special praise to Pennsylvania troops.

Following Secretary Roosevelt, Judge J. F. O'Connor of Cambria county, spoke briefly. In his address Judge O'Connor paid tribute to the American fighter as the greatest factor in winning the war. "The war was won by the American boy with a song in his heart and a smile on his face," an American boy is worth six Germans, said he.

After Judge O'Connor, Rev. James Moses of Philadelphia, a negro, talked for a short time on the negro race.

Acting Mayor Hoover's address of welcome follows:

"Soldiers, Sailors, Marines and Guests, Ladies and Gentlemen:—At no time during the entire history of Conneltsville has she had more reason to feel that signal honor and distinction has come to her than at the present moment. The citizens of this great county of Fayette have gathered at Conneltsville this week to pay tribute and do honor to her brave soldiers, and to join with them in a solemn but joyous celebration of the glorious victory they helped make possible.

"We deeply and sincerely feel our debt towards each brave boy who did his part in fighting our just cause. We mourn the absence of those who could not return, but lie in foreign graves, honored patriots, whose memory will carry on with generations to come, a hallowed and sacred thing.

"As the acting mayor of the city of Conneltsville, I take a real pleasure in welcoming you on behalf of the citizens of this community, with the heart-felt assurance of a cordial welcome, and the hope that you will enjoy the entertainment that is here prepared for you. The city is yours; its people are at your command; we will deem it an honor and a pleasure to serve you in whatever capacity is possible."

The Stradivarius Secret.

Will N. G. Holcomb of Newark, N. J., discover the secret of the violins made in Cremona? His friends believe he will. With a persistence that has won him general admiration, Mr. Holcomb has been studying faithfully for 25 years or more to learn why the Stradivarius and Guarnerius instruments yield their matchless golden tones.

Mr. Holcomb is firmly convinced that the old Italian master violin makers obtained their amazing results in large part through the adroit use of gum copal as a finish.

Not long ago he decided to see what influence copal had on the tone of one of his instruments. Upon removing the entire finish he was surprised to find that the voice of the violin had become dull and lifeless.

Relics Given Cathedral.

The dead bell of Dunblane (Scotland) cathedral and the sand-glass formerly in use in the pulpit have been presented to the Kirk session by the family in whose possession they were for many years. The dead bell is dated 1013, and was used at funerals in the parish, a small fee being charged by the Kirk session for its use. The bellie rang the bell through the town when he proclaimed a death, again when the arrangements for the funeral were to be made known, and again when he walked at the head of the funeral procession. The sand-glass dates from 1702, runs for about 20 minutes and it was no unusual thing for it to be turned two or three times during a sermon. The gifts are being exhibited in a specially constructed case in the cathedral.

Outfits That Intrigue the Motorist

If you have forewarned a motor tour for good reasons, do not allow yourself to stroll into shops or through the departments in big stores where motor tops are on display. Temptation lies there, along with the proper outfit for any sort of motorcar. Yes, these motor clothes suggest all sorts of alluring outings, from a tour across the continent to that of a few hours along perfect roads and through smart towns, and each has its own charm. The coats, capes, sweaters and hats show that motor and other sport clothes have become more specialized than ever before.

Leading off with coats there are leather coats like that shown in the picture that allow one to defy the hardest wear on the longest trip. It has a belt that slips through slides, very large patch pockets that hold everything with a flap that closes them at the top. A strap at the cuff makes a logical finish for the sleeve and a short shawl collar disposes of protection for the neck in a businesslike way. Coats of this kind are usually three-quarters length or a little shorter and are made in brown or black. Longer coats that cover the dress are shown having the upper portion of leather and the skirt portion of tweed or other heavy wool goods.

Leaving leather out of the reckoning there are comfortable coats of tweed, covert cloth and heavy Jersey, and these, like the leather and part leather coats, have certain fine quality of style that comes in garments that insure adaptability to the sort of demands made upon them. Among the jersey coats are more unusual mixtures in which two colors are woven together in the fabric with something of a changeable effect. For all ordinary motoring these cloth coats are most dependable. Besides these are the new woman's hair coats, beautifully soft, shown in fascinating tan shades, and especially stylish. And last comes the coat of pongee, which has a vitality that insures it a long future and a history that proves it always elegant.

To wear with these there are fetching motor hats of millinery patent leather and silk or of other millinery leather and of rubberized cloth that looks like a heavy crepe georgette. Nearly all these hats are short in the back and have visors in the front. They are shown in tan and brown, dark blue, black and green and in all black. Vells appear to be conspicuous by their absence.

FATHER GLENNON WARNS AGAINST THE DANGERS OF BOLSHEVISM IN THE U. S.

Greatest After the War Evil
Against Which We Must Guard Our Land.

CITES THE HUMES REPORT

To Show What a Withering Blight
Would Fall Upon Our Schools and Churches if Doctrines of Lenin and Trotzky Gained Foothold in America

During his address at the memorial services on Sunday evening Rev. Father Edward A. Glennon, pastor of Sacred Heart church, at Dawson, touched briefly, but with emphasis and significance, upon the dangers of Bolshevism as one of the by-products of the unrest following the war. In amplification of his remarks the following communication from Father Glennon becomes most timely, as it ought also to be contemplated with serious thoughtfulness by all who are concerned about guarding our country from an evil which, next to the Hun scourge, has been the greatest Europe has been obliged to suffer.

"When the editor of The Courier," writes Father Glennon, "graciously asked the writer to put before the people some facts that would show them the serious aspect of the danger now lurking at the very door of American Home, I looked for the easiest way to explain the question which sooner or later our country will have to deal with. I mean Socialism. Not your parlor chair Socialism, but Socialism at work. Not Socialism between the covers of a book, but the real thing as it is working in Russia and other parts of Europe today.

Bolshevism, or the rule of the crowd or majority, is now being tried out in Europe, and, judging by the work done there by those practical promoters of the doctrine, Lenin and Trotzky, it is a complete success. That is, if you are to judge by the number of dead, the pillaging and all that Russia is suffering today.

"Now the easiest way of putting before our people the danger they now have to confront after the war has been found. It is the official report of Major E. Lowry Humes, the counsel of the Senate Judiciary committee, investigating the danger we are trying to warn the people against, a danger that is growing surely and swiftly. I pass over that part of Major Humes' report which shows the economic ruin that would surely follow if this thing called Bolshevism gained a foothold here, and take up that part which ought to interest every Protestant and Catholic. Suppose we take Major Humes' own words and figures, and having read them, stop and reflect what it all means.

"It put into practice here Bolshevism would, to quote the report, 'call for the closing out of 194,759 Sunday schools and a great number of seminaries, colleges and universities; 26,326,890 Sunday school scholars would be deprived of and prevented from enjoying the institution that has become an important part of their lives and is one of the great moral forces of the nation.'

"Again," says Major Humes, "Catholic schools, colleges and seminaries to the number of 6,681 would be suppressed. Church property to the value of $1,670,600,582 would be confiscated and 41,926,894 (census of 1916) members of 227,487 church organizations would be submitted to the domination of an atheistic dictatorship.

"Perhaps these official words will make some impression on our fellow Americans. Perhaps the words of the official investigator, the findings of his corps of assistants, will direct their attention to the activities of the school of Lenin and Trotzky. Already have the agents of the Bolsheviki sought to convince the laboring man that his welfare is bound up in the success of this brand of Socialism, but he is said to its credit, the American Federation of Labor rejected the principles of the Bolsheviki at their last convention. But it has come to a sorry pass when even the New York police advise the officials of Carnegie hall not to have a meeting of any kind in that edifice on the Fourth of July.

"Members of the Bolsheviki are in our country. The enemy is not at our gates, they are already inside. Some have up to this time been transported out of the United States, but numbers yet remain. And they remain not idle, but most active, and you may be sure they will take all the advantage possible of unrest and discontent that the aftermath of the war will bring."

WAR POSTERS.

An Interesting Attraction of Home-Coming Celebration Week.

The exhibit of war posters and proclamations being held in the Baltimore & Ohio Y. M. C. A. is one of the week's attractions well worthy of a visit of inspection. J. C. Heery, an Australian lecturer, is the owner of the collection, which is valued at $10,000. It consists of posters of all descriptions, many of them the work of the greatest artists of the several nations engaged in the war and depicting very graphically the needs of the nations at the time they were used.

The proceeds of the exhibition are to be applied to the celebration fund. All soldiers and sailors in uniform are admitted free.

Huns Have a Town Crier.

The officers of the regiment have nothing on the burgomaster of Polch when it comes to having a striker. The only difference is that he is a changer, for he rings the bell to announce new tidings to the populace. For instance, if the square heads are not on the square with the Americans and a fine is imposed, the tidings of Hebble's hard luck must be published broadcast. So the chief mogul of Polch cracks his finger and explains the mission to the bell ringer, who in turn goes to each street corner announcing that Herr Hassenpfeffer has been fined 200 marks for not leaving the outside door unlocked. All this time the bell plays a changing accompaniment—From Barrage, Polch, Germany.
